

Turner Consulting & Therapy Services

Consent for Treatment

Turner Consulting & Therapy Services are committed to provide high quality service to our clients and providing them with all of the information necessary to be informed about the treatment process. As part of our effort in this regard, we are providing the following information about legal and ethical issues. If you agree to these stipulations, please sign the last page of this form. If you have questions, please discuss them with your therapist before signing the consent.

1. Confidentiality: We are committed to confidentiality to the fullest extent allowed by Texas Law. There are several exceptions, including but not limited to the following: 1) Any evidence of child abuse (past or present) must be reported. 2) If an individual intends to take harmful, dangerous or criminal actions against another human being or against him/herself, it is our duty to report such actions or intent to authorities. 3) Abuse of the elderly or disabled. 4) Sexual improprieties by a former therapist are a criminal offense and must be reported. (You have certain rights in such reporting which your therapist can explain to you.) 5. Certain court orders/actions such as custody cases, malpractice actions, criminal cases, etc. are extra collection of fees. If you have questions about this area, please feel free to discuss it with us.

2. Fees and Insurance: Our standard fee is $150.00 for the initial individual visit and $125.00 per 50-minute session; for couples a $200 initial consultation fee and $150 for each subsequent session. Some insurance companies may cover part of this cost. If you have coverage, you are welcome to assign the benefits and pay only your co-pay portion at the time of each visit. If your policy deductible has not been met, you are responsible for paying that amount. By law we are not allowed to waive deductible or co-payments.

By consenting to this treatment, you acknowledge that you are responsible for the cost of these provided services (to you and your minor or child) and agree to pay them when billed at time of services. If services are not paid, then you agree to pay a service charge within 30 days' notice. After 60 days the account may be assigned to an outside agency, in which case you will be responsible for paying attorney fees and /or collection fees and expenses.

It is important to remember that if you choose to utilize your insurance, we may be obligated to provide them certain information about your case including (but not necessarily limited to) a diagnosis, type and dates of services. By assigning benefits to (TCTS) you are authorizing us to provide your insurance carrier (or their intermediary) whatever information is necessary to process the claim. If you choose to utilize your insurance, it may affect your insurability. If at any time, you have any questions about the fees or insurance, please feel free to discuss them with us.

3. Fees for Medical Records: There is a $25.00 fee for each set of paperwork required for the therapist to complete for short term disability, long term disability, or Social Security.

4. Appointments: If you need to cancel an appointment, 24-hour notice is required. If you miss an appointment without sufficient notification, you will be charged. Missed appointments CANNOT be filed with insurance. Therefore, you are responsible for ½ the entire fee.

5. Right to withdraw from treatment: If a conflict arises for the client or the therapist, either has the right to withdraw from the treatment process. If the therapist feels the need to withdraw from providing treatment, he/she will so inform the client and provide appropriate referrals.

6. Record storage/interruptions in services: If an unforeseen event occurs which renders your therapist unable to continue to provide service (illness, death, etc.) or if your therapist retires, Turner Consulting & Therapy Services will provide you with information on obtaining your records should you need a referral. In the event of a sudden illness, etc., a member of our staff and/or Consultant contracted with said provider will be available to provide service in the interim until your therapist is able to return to work or until a referral is made.

7. Legal Actions: If legal actions occur in which your therapist is requested to testify or is subpoenaed to provide testimony (such as a custody or divorce case) you will be responsible to pay the following fees regardless if the subpoena is sent from the opposing side of the case or if the case never goes to court. 1) All travel expenses; 2) A fee of $250.00 per hour from the time the therapist leaves the office until he/she returns; 3) A fee of $250.00 per hour for the therapist's time preparing for testimony. An initial fee of $1500 will be required at time onset of the legal action as a deposit for the therapist's services. Any remaining balance will be return when the case is settled. Record copying fees begin at $25.00.

8. Emergency Situations: In the unlikely event that your therapist in his/her clinical judgement believes you to be dangerous to yourself or to someone else, by signing this consent you authorize him/her to contact either the persons listed as your emergency contact or someone else to provide assistance through this crisis situation.

9. The Counseling Process: The service provided by the staff of Turner Consulting & Therapy Services clinical is psychotherapy. There will be an assessment phase, a treatment phase, and a termination phase, the therapist will talk with you to gain historical information and may request that you take some assessment instruments. He/she will discuss the result of any assessment with you. You will be encouraged to work with your therapist to establish some goals for your work together. In the treatment phase, which will vary in length depending on the issues to be addressed, your therapist will work with you using various methods to help you resolve the issues that brought you to treatment. In the termination phase, therapy will often be concluding by spacing out visits over a period of time.

10. Special Needs: If cultural or language differences negatively impacts the prospects of successful therapy, you may ask for a referral to a therapist of your culture or who speaks your language. Your therapist will assist in such a referral if one can be found.

11. Risks of Therapy: Therapy sessions carry both benefits and risks. Therapy sessions can significantly reduce the amount of distress someone is feeling, improve relationships, and/or other specific issues. However, these improvements and any 'cures' cannot be guaranteed for any condition due to the many variables that affect these therapy sessions. Experiencing uncomfortable feelings, discussing unpleasant situations and/or aspects of your life are considered risks of therapy. You may learn things about yourself that you don't like. Often growth cannot occur until you experience and confront issues that induce you to feel sadness, anxiety, or pain. The success of our work together depends on the quality of the efforts on both our parts and the realization that you are responsible for lifestyle choices/changes that may result from therapy. Specifically, one risk of marital therapy is the possibility of exercising the divorce option.

12. After Hours: In an emergency situation, the office phones are answered after hours by an answering service and messages are forwarding to your therapist. Calls are returned as soon as possible. However, in the event that your therapist is unavailable, you may call the Suicide and Crisis Center at any time at 214-828-1000. Non-emergency phone calls will be returned the following business day.

If you have read and understand these aspects of consent, please sign below. Feel free to take a copy of the consent if you wish. If you have questions about any of the information on this form, discuss them with your therapist and wait to sign the form with him/her. Insurance questions may be addressed to the office manager. We are looking forward to working with you.
